Background

This document aims to provide valuable information for civil society organisations, academics and other stakeholders in relation to submitting written contributions as a response to the European Commissions' Rule of Law targeted stakeholder consultation. It is designed to offer guidance, tips, and best practices to help you consolidate individual or joint reports into one final submission to be presented to the European Commission.

The information contained in this guidance document is provided for informational purposes only. While we strive to ensure the accuracy and reliability of the information presented herein, the guidance provided does not constitute professional legal advice and we encourage you to visit the European Commission's website for the latest information. We hope you find this guidance document helpful and informative.

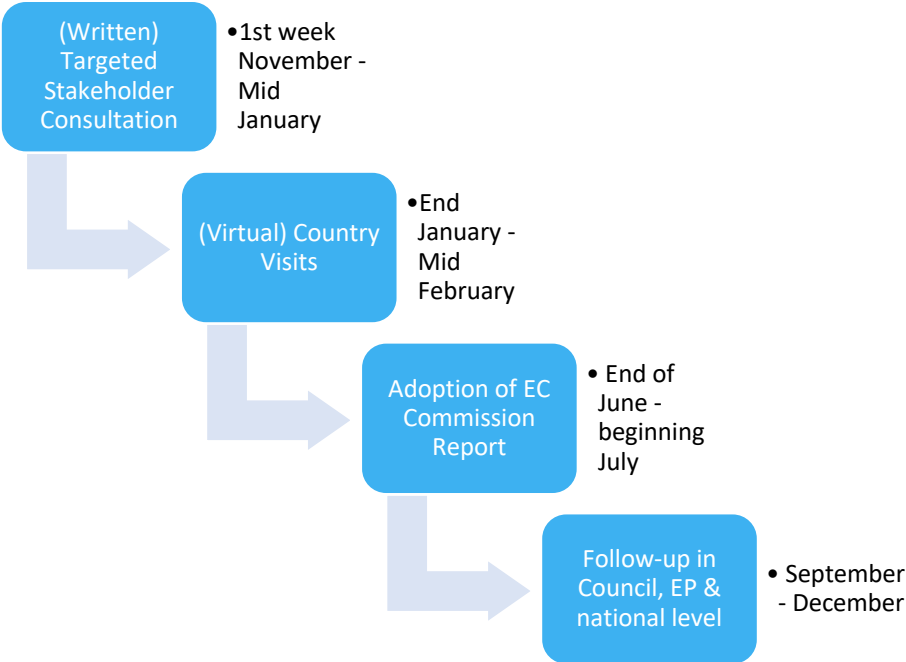

The Rule of Law: Principles and Mechanism

The rule of law is a fundamental principle in governance that emphasizes the supremacy of law over individuals and government officials. It ensures that all individuals and institutions, including the government, are subject to and accountable under the law. Simply put, the rule of law promotes a just, stable, and democratic society by establishing a framework where laws are applied uniformly, rights are protected, and institutions are held accountable.

The rule of law is one of the fundamental values upon which the European Union (EU) is built and it has a number of tools at its disposal to ensure the respect of the rule of law in all Member States. The European Commission is responsible for guaranteeing the respect of the rule of law across the EU and the annual rule of law cycle is one such tool, which also involves dialogue with national stakeholders, such as yourself. This annual reporting process seeks to prevent challenges present in individual Member States from emerging or deepening and results in country-specific recommendations including on justice systems, fight against corruption, media freedom and governance issues.

In Malta, the assassination of Daphne Caruana Galizia, brought international attention to and concerns with the backsliding of the rule of law in Malta. In particular, the Council of Europe’s Parliamentary Assembly requested a Venice Commission opinion on Malta’s constitutional arrangements on the separation of powers and the independence of the judiciary and law enforcement bodies. The same concern was shown by the European Parliament’s LIBE committee that set up an ad hoc monitoring committee on Malta. Besides focusing on Malta’s constitutional amendments, both entities also investigated the protection and safety of the media and journalists in Malta, anti-corruption measures and governance issues. These same issues are those reflected in the challenges identified and recommendations put forward by national stakeholders and the European Commission in the Malta chapter of the annual rule of law report.

Timeline

The Rule of Law reports cover developments and events in the year directly preceding the end of the targeted stakeholder consultation in January.

Data Gathering for the Written Targeted Stakeholder Consultation

The targeted stakeholder consultation involves the submission of written information by civil society on 4 main pillars: justice systems, fight against corruption, media freedom and governance issues. This is done through an online form which would be accessible via the Commission webpage on the Rule of law mechanism, see Annex 1 for an example of the form.

Annually, the Commission aims to deepen the assessment under each of the four pillars and to follow-up on the implementation of the recommendations to Malta that were issued as part of the country chapter Rule of Law Report published the previous year. The recommendations addressed to Malta can be found in the Recommendations section at the beginning of the Malta country chapter report.

Therefore, your submission should focus on:

1. information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Malta in the preceding Rule of Law report, as well as other developments. Feedback can be both positive or negative;
2. any other significant developments during falling under "other" information at the end of section;
3. inclusion of your own recommendations in your submission, based on the data at hand, can also be impactful.
4. the above should focus on developments with regards to the legal and policy frameworks and also on their implementation, i.e. what is happening in practice.

The Commission would prefer if law, documents and reports were referenced with a link, however, keep in mind that you cannot embed a link in the text and would need to include the full web address. This can have an impact on your character count.

After your submission you may be invited to a country visit by the European Commission which involves a virtual meetings with a balanced range of NGOs representing a range of views on the topics. The scope of the meeting is for the Commission to ask for more in-depth information on selected issues or to clarify aspects of your submission.

1. Data Collection & Desk Research

It is recommended that before drafting you carry out the following exercise:

- I. Define your own research scope: identify the focus of your submission based on your expertise, focus and knowledge in the area;
- II. Throughout the year try to gather data you think is relevant through Freedom of Information Requests or through data contained in Parliamentary Questions;
- III. Familiarise yourselves with the recommendations from previous EC Rule of law reports. The Commission is interested to see progress and/or regress over time and therefore reference to previous recommendations and an analysis of non/implementation is key.
- IV. Gather existing relevant reports, publications and statistics pertaining to the year in question;
- V. Utilize relevant sources such as government publications, academic journals, NGO reports, and international organizations' assessments.

2. Important sources

In order to have a complete submission it might also be helpful to refer to certain key documents that have been published in the year under review or that are still relevant in certain sectors. For example, Malta's recovery and resilience plan which is linked to certain key recommendations in the Rule of Law report will remain relevant in years to come.

Here are some key documents that could be useful:

- UN bodies reports: UN thematic mandates, such as Special Rapporteur on the independence of judges and lawyers and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime; Universal Periodic Review recommendations; UN treaty bodies, such as the Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD).

- Council of Europe Monitoring Body reports: Venice Commission Reports, Parliamentary Assembly resolutions; Human Rights Commissioner reports and press releases; Group of States against Corruption (GRECO) evaluations.
- European Union Institution reports: such as the EC Rule of Law Reports, European Parliament mission reports and reports from the LIBE Committee, Commission assessment of the recovery and resilience plan, Eurobarometer and Eurostat data.
- National Monitoring Body reports: Ombudsman, National Council for the Promotion of Equality, Information and Data Protection Commissioner, National Audit Office, Commission for Persons with Disability, Commissioner for Voluntary Organisations amongst others.
- National Statistics: National Statistics Office, Parliamentary Questionnaires and other statistics published by individual Ministries or Agencies.
- Government documents: Rule of Law Report - input from Malta, laws, policy documents, budget documents and estimates, audits, consultation documents amongst others.
- NGO and academic reports: including European and International umbrella organisations or NGOs, such as Amnesty International, Transparency International, Greenpeace, Reporters Without Borders, the Council of Bars and Law Societies of Europe and many others.
- National and European Case-law: covering Maltese courts, European Court of Human Rights and the Courts of Justice of the European Union.
- Newspaper and media reports both local and international.

Useful Tips

- There is a character limit imposed for each question in the Commission form, usually of 5000 characters.
- Publishing your submission on your website is extremely useful to other NGOs and monitoring bodies.
- Record data (news, legislation, decisions etc) in one document/file throughout the year, this will ease drafting pressure between December and January.
- Track and monitoring data using tools such as google alerts.
- Use short clear sentences. Avoid trying to squeeze too much information into each sentence.
- Repeating information/analysis already submitted previous years to show lack of progress can be impactful.
- The questionnaire is only available in English, however submissions are possible in all languages.
- Remember that you cannot embed hyperlinks in the online form: you can only include the full web address and this will increase the word count. The use of footnotes is not possible.
- It is also possible to send a pdf word version to rule-of-law-network@ec.europa.eu, however keep in mind the word limit is still applicable. In this document you can embed hyperlinks and use footnotes for referencing.
- You can choose whether your submission remains confidential or public.
- You can choose which sections and questions to answer, there is no need to answer all.
- Reach out to other NGOs for the possibility of a joint submission with different NGOs or networks contributing to different sections of the report according to expertise.
- Joint submissions are easy, just indicate the names of the NGO in the space indicated for "Organisations Name" and the respective transparency register numbers, if applicable, in the EC Rule of Law form!

2024 Rule of Law Report - targeted stakeholder consultation

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The annual Rule of Law Report lies at the centre of the Annual Rule of Law Cycle, which acts as a preventive tool, deepening multilateral dialogue and joint awareness of rule of law issues. So far, four editions of the Rule of Law Report have been published in 2020, 2021, 2022 and 2023.

The Commission would like to invite stakeholders to provide contributions to the 2024 Rule of Law Report. This survey provides information on the type of information and topics that will be covered in the 2024 Rule of Law Report, in order to allow stakeholders to provide input. More targeted input may be requested at a later stage of preparation of the 2024 Rule of Law Report, including in the context of country visits, or bilateral contacts.

The 2024 Rule of Law Report will continue to deepen the assessment under the existing four pillars, and will also follow-up on the implementation of the recommendations to Member States, that were issued as part of the 2023 Rule of Law Report. The contribution to be provided should include (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2023 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter and (2) any other significant developments since January 2023^[1] falling under the 'type of information' outlined in section II.

The input should consist of a short summary, if possible in English, covering the areas referred to below. Legislation or other documents may be referenced with a link. Contributions should focus on significant developments since the last Rule of Law Report both as regards the legal framework and its implementation in practice.

[1] Unless the information was already submitted in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Type of information

The topics are structured according to four pillars: I. Justice system; II. Anti-corruption framework; III. Media pluralism; and IV. Other institutional issues related to checks and balances. The replies could include aspects set out below under each pillar. This can include challenges, current work streams, positive developments and best practices:

A) Legislative developments

- Newly adopted legislation

- Legislative drafts currently discussed in Parliament
- Legislative plans envisaged by the Government

B) Policy developments

- Implementation of legislation
- Evaluations, impact assessment, surveys
- White papers/strategies/actions plans/consultation processes
- Follow-up to reports/recommendations of Council of Europe bodies or other international organisations
- Important administrative measures
- Generalised practices

C) Developments related to the judiciary / independent authorities

- Important case law by national courts
- Important decision/opinions from independent bodies/authorities
- State of play on terms, nominations and expired mandates for high-level positions (e.g. Supreme Court, Constitutional Court, Council for the Judiciary, heads of independent authorities included in the scope of the questionnaire[2])

D) Any other relevant developments

- Respondents are free to add any further information, which they deem relevant; however, this should be short and to the point.

Please also indicate whether the developments reported are linked to the implementation of reforms and investments under the RRP, where applicable.

If there are no changes, it is sufficient to indicate this and the information covered in the contributions for the previous Rule of Law Reports should not be repeated.

[2] Such as: media regulatory authorities and bodies, national human rights institutions, equality bodies, ombudsman institutions, supreme audit institutions and, where they exist, transparency authorities.

Questions on horizontal developments

In this section, you are invited to provide information on general horizontal developments or trends, both positive and negative, covering all or several Member States. In particular, you could mention issues that are common to several Member States, as well as best practices identified in one Member State that could be replicated. Moreover, you could refer to your activities in the area of the four pillars and sub-topics (an overview of all sub-topics can be found below), and, if you represent a Network of national organisations, to the support you might have provided to one of your national members.

Questions for contribution

The following four pillars (I.-IV.) are sub-divided into topics (A., B., etc.) and sub-topics (1., 2., 3., etc.). For each of the topics and sub-topics, you are invited to provide (1) information on measures taken to implement the recommendations addressed to the Member State in the 2023 Rule of Law report, as well as developments with regard to the points raised in the respective country chapter of the 2023 Rule of Law Report and (2) any other significant developments since January 2023^[3]. Please always include a link to and reference relevant legislation/documents (in the national language and/or where available, in English). Significant developments can include challenges, positive developments and best practices, covering both legislative developments or implementation and practices.

If there are developments you consider relevant under each of the four pillars that are not mentioned in the sub-topics, please add them under the section "other - please specify". Only significant developments should be covered.

Information provided in reply to the first question under each pillar, related to the follow-up to the recommendations, does not need to be repeated in subsequent parts of the questionnaire, but can be cross-referenced in the subsequent questions, where relevant. All other questions are not limited to the recommendations, but as in previous years, cover the entire scope of the Report.

[3] Unless already covered in the input for the previous Rule of Law Reports.

Member State covered in contribution [only one choice possible]

If you wish to submit information concerning several Member States, please fill in the questionnaire separately for each Member State. There is no limit to the number of contributions submitted by a single participant.
